

ABSTRACT

A data sonde for use in horizontal drilling is provided, the data sonde comprising an antenna for emitting a first modulated signal from the data sonde, the first signal comprising zero and non-zero emission components in different periods, and a receiver for receiving an intermittent second data signal during first signal zero emission periods. A method of operation of the same is also provided.